Don't Let Your Brown Spots Get You Feeling Blue.

“Three main factors that affect hyper-pigmentation are Sun, Heat & Synthetic ingredients in your personal care products.”

Skin pigmentation disorders are very common. Hyper pigmentation problems (dark spots & discolorations) are most often associated with aging and acne and occur when pigment producing cells (melanocytes) become more active than normal, leading to over production and deposit of more pigment (melanin). Excess pigment can be brought on by both systemic (internal) and external factors. Even in systemic situations, pigmentation is often made worse by external causes.

Hypo pigmentation is far less common and occurs when the pigment-producing cells are either destroyed or stunned into inactivity. This generally occurs due to serious skin injury or an autoimmune disease where the immune system mistakenly attacks the melanocytes (e.g. vitiligo).

Melasma is characterized by patchy pigment distribution and is most commonly found on the forehead and cheeks. Chloasma, a variant of melasma occurs mainly in women and is associated with increased levels of certain hormones and may be triggered by pregnancy or oral contraceptive use.

THERE IS HELP FOR THE PIGMENTATION WAGING A WAR IN YOUR SKIN!!!

Pigmentation can be prevented, improved and even eliminated with a combination of treatments, including topical lightening and brightening agents, cryogenic therapy, peels, and full spectrum, every day sunscreen protection! The right combination of personal care products for your skin needs is critical to achieving and maintaining results. Products containing chemicals, synthetic dyes and artificial fragrance are proven to contribute to the skins pigment irregularities by adversely stimulating the skins melanocyte activity. Ask us about NEW Peels and products to support the elimination of pigmentation problems in your skin. A complimentary follow up is available to clients for program review and education.

A Peel for Every Season & Skin Type

Although not a face lift, a peel can lift your spirits at a fraction of the cost and very little recovery time. Peels, one of the most popular cosmetic procedures today, give your skin a rejuvenated, refreshed look by erasing the fine lines and discolorations caused by years of sun exposure, cigarette smoke, inappropriate product use or an inherited predisposition to facial wrinkling. A Peel also significantly improves the appearance of acne and acne scarring, removes precancerous skin growths and can be performed on the face, neck, chest, hands, arms or legs. A truly amazing peel treatment for quick rejuvenation, the “Skin Awakening Peel” is just one of many NEW clinical peel options available at trioSkincare. Our new Peel programs promote healthy skin rejuvenation and will reveal significant skin improvements. While a single peel treatment will initiate cellular rejuvenation and provide a degree of enhancement, a truly successful skin rejuvenation program does not begin and end with one stop in the treatment room. A series of peels performed every 1-3 weeks, combined with pre and post skin conditioning is essential to long term results with any treatment process. Ask our estheticians about the right peel series for your skincare needs. Combined with the regenerative nutrients found in Epidermal Growth Factors and Peptide Serums from our new Rhonda Allison Line, you will be amazed with the transformation that is about to take place in your skin.

BEFORE TIMELESS PEEL

Don't Shy Away From Wearing Shorts This Summer!

Sclerotherapy was developed in the 1920s for the treatment of spider veins (telangiectasias), small purple and red blood vessels. Spider veins are hereditary, and while most commonly found on the thigh or lower leg, can form virtually anywhere on the leg, from the uppermost region of the thigh to the ankle. Sclerotherapy has proven to be a very popular nonsurgical cosmetic procedure.

THE SKIN CARE MAKEUP™

"This is one of the best under eye Concealers and Camouflage Creams we have ever seen." Active Light is an illuminating concealer that does not contain talc, so you get a finish that will not settle in your fine lines. The mineral particles in Active Light create a soft focus and change the way light is reflected from the skin, camouflaging dark circles. The product also contains buckwheat wax to reduce puffiness.
