Know your sunscreen: physical blocks & chemical blocks protect your skin differently.

Chemical sunblock absorbs UV Rays into the skin, dispersing the energy throughout. While efficient at absorbing UVB (Burning) rays, they do not absorb all UVA (Aging) rays, unless they are full spectrum. They take 20-30 minutes to provide protection after application and once the chemical(s) absorbs their limit, protection ceases. Must be reapplied frequently even when labeled waterproof.

Physical Sunblock contains minerals like zinc oxide and titanium dioxide which provide the most comprehensive coverage. They sit on top of your skin and reflect the rays of the sun, completely shielding and protecting the skin underneath. A true extension of healthy skincare, they protect skin immediately & provide anti inflammatory benefits. While many are water resistant, you still need to reapply for extended protection.

UV vs. SPF UVA rays cause premature Aging, such as wrinkles, and may even cause some skin cancers. UVB rays are more potent, and quicker to produce sunburn, and are a major cause of skin cancer. SPF always refers only to UVB "Burn" protection.
